

Northern Lights Display

The Last Frontier has glaciers by the bay
And Arctic air keeps many folks away,
But those who have decided they will stay
Consider themselves lucky and they may
See Northern Lights' magnificent display
When night time hours equal those of day.

For places so remote there's just one way
To reach them – it's by air or waterway.
But somehow they've survived until today.

The Trans-Alaska pipeline to the bay
Has now become a political fray,
Providing needed fuel without delay,
But making many nervous people say
It has disturbed much nature on its way.

In early March this race gets underway,
Iditarod is not a place to play.
Most dogs are loyal and they won't betray
Their masters, whose commands they must obey
Or risk the chance of wandering astray.
Despite the weather most make out OK!

© Bill Amirault – 2007