

Helen Keller & Rosa Parks

When Helen Keller learned to speak and read
She showed the handicapped how to succeed.
And all who know of her would say indeed
She helped provide the spark of a new seed

That grew into a protest on a bus
Where Rosa Parks said, "I am one of us!"
She took Ms. Keller's courage to new heights
By staying in her seat without a fight
Displaying how we're equal in God's sight,
So no one feels repressed by day or night.

The Alabama tide was changed that day
So people of all races could then say,
"I am an equal citizen today,"
And freedom's march goes on without delay.

For through these women's attitude and strife,
They made the Constitution come to life,
And set examples everyone can use
No matter what their underlying views.
Our gratefulness is difficult to voice,
Since both have passed, but now we have a choice.

© Bill Amirault – 2006